THE DAILY SENTINEL.

C. L. MAC ARTHUR & D. M. KEELER, EDITORS.

Wednesday Morning, December 25.

☞To-day being Christmas no paper will be issued from this office to-morrow. Could'nt help it—the boys would go and see their 'mnsiedoras'—Christmas comes but once a year—they would celebrate—hope there's no offence—beg pardon—really—but—take sugar in yours?

Christmas!

"Hark! a glad voice the lonely desert cheers!—
Prepare the way—a God!—a God appears!
"A God! A God!" the vocal hills reply;
The rocks proclaim the approaching Deity!"

TO-DAY IS CHRISTMAS!—and a memorable day, too, in the annals of the World's history, as being the anniversary of the Nativity of Christ.—As the successive surges of years which are destined to fill the vast Ocean of Eternity, sweep past on their unchanging course, Religion and Virtue will consecrate it, as sacred to the memory of the Son of Man! And what changes—what revolutions—has old time made, as his pinions have plied merrily onward, these intervening eighteen and a half centuries? As his wings have swept unceasingly along the abyss, what strange, fantastic scenes—what wild and wayward freaks—what sad and sombre pictures—what gay and merry meetings—what mighty innovations—what gigantic and colossal works—have his gray eyes peered down on! He has seen the gay and grave—the young and old—the prince and the peasant—actors in each succeeding century, in the 'strange eventful' drama of human life, appear and play their parts, make their exits behind the drop-curtains of human existence, and then fade from the memory of man and become lost in the shades of forgetfulness! 'Solitary and alone, like a sequestered hermit wrapt in his own originality,' has Old Time looked down from his isolated eyrie, and beheld every being and perishable memento, which gloried in the pride of an existence at the birth of Christ, perish and die, and 'leave not a hope behind.' One by one has he laid the cherished stars of the ideal world—the brighter gems of youth and beauty—in the mausoleum of the past, and as he closed the iron gates of obscurity's domb over them, and wreathed their memory in a sombre misty veil, his bony fingers have written on the sands on which they sleep: 'Life, with all its gay and busy scenes, is but a Walking Shadow!' As memory wanders back o'er the pathway passed for aye, and tinges with a thousand hues the receding shores of times gone by, what living oracle can recount wizard-like, the weird and checquered legends and tales of other generations gone. One fatal truth comes up, and points to the Poet for its impressive lesson—

"All that o'er which Earth bears sway,
Breathes but one record—PASSING AWAY!"

But a truce to moralizing. To each and all may this prove a 'merry Christmas.' And should the memory of the past come flowing around the heart, like the mellowed light of a summer's sunset—should your spirit, when yourself seated in comfort and plenty around the festive board, wander back into the mystical lore of past generations, and bring to your mind in dancing visions, the shadowy characters and images which have flitted along the pathway of time, may your imagination rest down upon the shades of the old Dutch burgomasters who of old peopled Manhatten, and, as your kindling fancy dwells upon the rubicond visages of these honest Knickerbockers, as they sit in their easy chairs, with large pipes from which issue great volumes of tobacco-smoke, enjoying that calm contentment which soothes the heart of the industrious citizen may you learn a lesson in moral philosophy which will make you contented with your lot in life, however humble the sphere in which you move,

☞ The Buffalo Commercial Advertiser notices the appearance of counterfeit bills on the Bank of Owego, as follows. The same bills have made their appearance in this city. Look out for them.

New Counterfeit.—A two dollar counterfeit bill on the bank of Owego was shown us this morning, the general appearance of which is calculated to deceive. The following is a description:—

NEW YORK — SAFETY FUND. — 2

2 — A — Eagle, shield, and figure of Liberty. — No 1770. — 2

Indian seated, Rail cars in the distance. — THE BANK OF OWEGO, Will pay Two DOLLARS on demand to H Rides or bearer. Owego, Feb 1, 1843. — An antique figure seated, writing; temple in the back ground

Die. — Jamy Wright, Cash'r — J. Platt, Pres't. Two

The genuine bills do not have the words Safety Fund across the top, and the Vignette in the centre of the bill, is an Eagle standing on a rock with the wings outspread. On the left hand margin is the coat of arms of the State surrounded by the words, "Countersigned and Registered in the Comptroller's office," and signed by W. H. King, Register. The denomination of the body of it is printed in black letter type. On the left hand margin at the top and bottom are the words two, and in the centre a female head. Other differences might be pointed out, but those mentioned are sufficient to detect the counterfeit.

ON DITS.—It is rumored that President Tyler will re-nominate Judge King to the vacant seat of the Supreme Court, occasioned by the death of Judge Baldwin.

Washington rumor says that Gov. Bouck, of old white horse memory, will be made Secretary of the Navy.

Report of the Secretary of War.

The following extracts from the Report of the Secretary of War will be read with interest by all. It furnishes another evidence of the fact that the teeming country in the vicinity of Lake Superior and on our northwes ern boundary, is yet destined to be reclaimed from its native wildness and rejoice in all the glorious concomitants of improvement and civilization.—

I have had a military post established at Copper Harbor, on the extremity of the peninsula which juts out far into Lake Superior from the middle of its southern shore. Besides giving protection to the Indians and miners; and preserving order in a new settlement of such a mixed population, it forms one point in the new cordon, which the general extension of our settlements and the enlargement of our territories by Indian treaties are about rendering necessary to be established in accordance with the policy which has heretofore been adopted on our north-western frontier. With two intermediate posts, between St. Peters, the head of navigation on the Mississippi river, and Copper Harbor, this new cordon will be complete. The fur company's post at La Pointe, near Fon Du Lac, should be one; and the portage, on the water communication between Lake Superior, near Fon du Lac and St. Peters, the other.

With a view to the policy to which I now advert, and to preserve the military posts already established upon our lake frontier, it is proper I should recommend the appropriation of funds to renew the buildings of Fort Gratiot, commanding the straits between Lake Huron and Lake St. Clair, and of Fort Brady, at the Falls of St. Mary, upon the outlet of Lake Superior, originally constructed in haste and of slight and perishable materials. The usual liberal allowance for constructing military roads in the Territories can no where be more judiciously granted than for the country south of Lake Superior.—When such communications shall be opened, and a canal at the Falls of St. Mary—a work much urged upon us by national considerations, shall be constructed, this frontier would be capable of receiving supplies and be well secured, in a military point of view, besides the enhancement of which would thereby be given to the value of the public lands, and the encouragement for their occupation by a mining and other population, possessing the skill and the capital to explore, develope, and bring into market the mineral treasures of the country.

The mineral lands of the nation are every day coming more into public notice—disclosing their great extent and their importance and valuable treasures. I would recommend the removal of all special restriction from the sale of those lands, leaving them under the same regulations with other public lands; being satisfied that the true object of the policy of the government will be best accomplished by the individual enterprise and energy which so distinctly mark the American character, and the fruitful and happy influences of which are manifested everywhere around the region of ores. Should this course be adopted, Congress would take care to guard the interests of those who have made locations, or received leases, agreeably to the established rules of the beaureau to which the superintendence of these lands has been intrusted. Would not the fair acquisition and distribution of those lands by purchase, among individuals, be the means of carrying into this new country capital, population and improvements calculated readily to bring into market the rich products of the mines—highly valuable advantages, not likely to be gained by ingraiting upon the government a great and unprofitable monopoly, feudal in its character, and at variance with all our legislation and institutions?

The improvements of the western rivers and lake harbors have been prosecuted with vigor during the present year. Lessening the many perils of navigation, they will add to the wealth and strength of the country. These works should not be extended at one time; but, when once commenced, should, never be abandoned until completed. A suspension of an incomplete work of the kind not only leads to a vast sacrifice in boats and machinery, but, during the incompleteness of the scheme of improvement, embarrasses the navigation, and may end in the entire unprofitable expenditure of the money, appropriated. The importance of this class of works upon our chain of great northern lakes, and our extensive and broad rivers of the West, constituting the great high ways of our internal commerce, all seem to admit; and it is trested that time and experience will lessen the contest upon the question of their nationality.

The Cumberland Valley Railroad Bridge Destroyed by Fire—Several Lives Lost.

At a quarter past 2 o'clock this afternoon, the Cumberland Valley Bridge across the Susquehanna was on fire. There was a pretty brisk wind from the northeast, and in about 15 minutes the part of the bridge to the opposite shore was entirely consumed, together with a small house on the shore.

The fire continued to spread until TWENTY of the twenty four span were entirely consumed.

At the fifth span from the shore on this side the flames were finally arrested, but by a means which unfortunately cost the lives of many of our citizens, and seriously injured many others. At this span the precaution had been used to cut away the roof and upper part of the bridge entirely, about half way between the two piers; and when the fire reached this point, the hose companies were in readiness and were successful in arresting it; but when it burned through, contrary to expectation, the whole span went down carrying with it about 50 or 60 persons who were standing with the hose between the point cut and the pier, crushing several between the timbers, and mangling their bodies, and most horribly and seriously injuring many others.

The following is the list of killed and wounded:—

Killed—Mr. Jousling; Mr. Shoemaker, a young man; a son of Mr. Dumas; a young man from Mechanicsburgh, Cumberland county, name unknown.

Wounded—A son of Mr. Brown, tailor, Harrisburg very seriously injured; Owen McCabe, not expected to survive his injuries; a man, name unknown, both his hands mashed.

Several are known to be drowned, but their bodie are not yet found. Several others were variously injured from broken limbs, and some had their backs broken.

☞ A correspondent of the Madison Express, speaking of the steamer De Witt Clinton, and its gallant commander, SQUIRES, says:—

"No nobler man than he ever trod a plank, no vessel of the character and size of the Clinton can boast of the pleasant apartments; and STEVENS, the Steward, will always be remembered as long as woodcock suppers are in demand, or taste is not impaired by sea-sickness."

We can bear witness to the truth of the above. No one can call on Stevens at the Exchange Coffee House in this city, without exclaiming in surprise at the savory odors and choice eatables which will greet him, like the Queen of Sheba, "the half has not yet been told." Mr. RICE, associated with Stevens, form a couple who cannot be beaten in the way of serving up eatables for hungry customers.

Farther Extracts from "The Crisis."

Foreign associations and prejudices.—Foreigners, then, make, or rather preserve themselves as such. They draw the lines of distinction between themselves and the Americans, by their social, political, and military associations, and thus consolidate themselves as a foreign community, a foreign party. They have organized as such: they hold their meetings as such, and for their own peculiar interests. Thus they are exclusive, and they seek to become more and more so, alike in their opinions, their habits, and their purposes. In doing this, too, in their Repeal meetings, they openly and daringly violate our international laws and all good national faith. One of the orators said at a late and large Repeal gathering, that if their objects and meetings were unconstitutional, "he, for one, would renounce his allegiance to the Constitution."

In view of these facts there will appear great justice, and especially after what has been said of Native Americans by Irish Repealers among us, in quoting a few remarks from a New Orleans paper, on the character of these boisterous champions of liberty, though they fall far short of the language used by them against Americans. We quote without comment or endorsement. Let those who know, judge of the facts and conclusions.

"We have heard a great deal, in times past, of the bravery of the Irish people—their warm-hearted and enthusiastic love of liberty—their self-sacrificing love of liberty—and, under Emmet and his compeers, the Irish chasacter did almost rise to the dignity of a spirit which deserved to be free. But, alas, how miserably has it sunk since then! What do we see? A people groaning beneath the rod of oppression, at length roused to action by sufferings which they can no longer bear, and demanding from their tyrants those rights which God bestows upon all his creatures who deserve to exercise them? Do we see the "down trodden people of Ireland," ('tis a favorite phrase with our modern maudlin philanthorpists,) rising up in their might, with the sword of justice in their hands, swearing that they will be free or die? No!—But we see a parcel of miserable and cowardly slaves, too timid and unintellectual to venture one grand stroke for liberty, quarreling with their masters at a fair, while under the influence of whiskey, and then turned out into the streets to die like spiritless dogs, while their champion, the great O'Connell, rides to public assemblies in the lordships gilded and liveried chariot, with his "massive gold chain of office" about his neck, and makes a flowery speech about liberty, while his emissaries are traversing far-off lands begging money from door to door and from city to city, to support the poor victims of British oppression!—Is this the picture of a great and mighty nation struggling to be free? Can Americans look back at their own history and contemplate the deeds by which their fathers wrenched their liberties from their tyrant's hands, and then recognise these begging, cowardly slaves as congenial spirits? Does Ireland expect to gain her freedom while her people are so destitute of that spirit which alone can make liberty valuable to them? Or can Americans for one moment seriously believe that donations to Daniel O'Connell, even admitting that they were to be honestly applied in the manner he professes, are to bestow freedom upon Ireland? If she would indeed be free, let her show that she is worthy of so great a blessing. Let her emulate the deeds of the patriotic Poles, who died sword in hand, bravely contending for liberty: let her take example from the scattered and feeble colonies of North America, which dared to cope, alone and unaided, with the giant power of their oppressor. Freedom is won by fighting, not by begging! and we cannot contemplate the paltry efforts of the great champions of Ireland without feeling humiliated by the reflection that such mock heroes should dare to claim the sympathies of American Freemen.

"The game is deeper than this. The cry of "Irish Repeal" is but a decoy to distract our attention from the fanatical and traitorous designs of the enemies of America—or rather of Americans. They wish to play upon our too easy sympathies, and enrich themselves at the expense of our undiscriminating good nature. They aim at the destruction of our domestic institutions, and the supplanting of the slave labor by their own. What if they deny it, here—they openly unite with the abolitionists at the North; and the trick of denying in N. Orleans that which made the burden of their public meeting at Faneuil Hall, with William Lloyd Garrison for chairman and a free negroe and a runaway slave for secretarics, is too shallow to dupe even the most common understanding. There is treason abroad in this land; and if its emissarise and preachers do not hurry away, they may yet be presented with the same badges of distinction worn by the tories of the Revolution.

It is said "they have a regularly organized political association in the tenth ward, of New York, which holds no communication with their fellow-citizens, and they even have their tickets printed in a language which Americans cannot understand, and that, with its branches in parts of the city, it numbers between 2000 and 3000 voters, for which they make their own terms with political leaders. And further, that "in the sixth ward, they have a well drilled political Roman Catholic Irish association still more numerous, and whose isolation and non-intercourse with American citizens are still more intolerent and proscriptive."

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY!

Richardson & Co's celebrated American Panacea.

THIS article is all compounded from Vegetable matter, free from any adulteration, & warranted free from any ingredient detrimental to health.

It is the most invaluable discovery ever made from the Vegetable Kingdom, having never failed in a single instance (when taken in accordance with directions) to effect a cure of the following diseases; to wit:—Salt Rheum; Scrofula; Bronchitis; Fever Sores; Kings Evil; Fistula; Inflamatory and Chronic Rheumatism; Piles; Bites; Erysipelas; Scurvy; Chronic, Sore Eyes; Pains in the Bones, Scald Head; Blotche or Pimples on the face, and all cutaneous diseases, Eruptions of the skin, or pains or ulcers arising from an injudicious use of Mercury, or an impure state of the blood.

The cureative properties of this medicine, consists in its producing a sure and effectual alterative of the whole system. In slight eruptions of the skin, or recently contracted diseases, one small bottle effects the cure, while the experience of those who have been cured by it, of long standing and obstinate diseases, is, that it requires from three to four large bottles to effect a perfect cure, and no return of the disease. It usually produces a tonic effect, while (in most cases) it also acts as a gentle cathartic, increasing the appetite and general health of the patient, causing all sores, or ulcers, to discharge more profusely than before taking it, and inducing a perfectly healthy action of the blood. Enough must be taken to effect an alterative, and as is the case with all medicines, its effects will vary as the several constitutions differ from each other therefore those using it, should not distrust its efficacy, if they do not receive immediate benefit. It is prepared with great care, and the Extracts brought into so small a compass, as to require usually but one table spoon full each day for an adult. It is now in use by the first Physicians in the country and pronounced by them the best anti-Mercurial medicine known, and the most efficacious, in the cure of cutaneous and scrofula effections. The cure effected by it, are truly astonishing, as may be seen by reference to the certificates, and testimonials, in possession of all the agents. It has been found peculiarly efficacious in producing regularity of the mensis in Females, and has been taken with great benefit in pulmonary diseases. Those in the use of it should abstain from stimulating drinks, Beer, Mustard, and all highly seasoned food. Obtained at wholesale of THOS. dec10 L. J. HIGBY,
Corner of Wisconsin and water sts

I say, stranger, what makes Yes! HIGBY sells very you put the mare through so cheap since he has got home this morning! Did you meet from New-York. An eight a Pedlar who bought his gear costume of his at Miss Goods in Small parts, & thinks he go to sell them! Well, I more Goods for five dollars bought my Goods at L. J. than other stores would sell HIGBY'S, in Milwaukie—three seven—and what is more what is everything you can buy so cheap and as good, and so cheap that I had bought elsewhere, for Pedlers. I am that place or elegance, durability and unlike other I cannot sell with it. Hence the cause of those who buy at the Cheap Store. I must have some Good Sense of L. J. Higby. Good day, sir.

WINTER GOODS.
